Business Standard (IANS)

«Why online shopping sales are less on mobile apps»

7 January 2018 · English · By IANS. Quoted by name.

https://www.business-standard.com/article/news-ians/why-online-shopping-sales-are-less-on-mobile-apps-118010700144_1.html

Research. Huang, G.H., Korfiatis, N. and Chang, C.T. (2018). Mobile Shopping Cart Abandonment: The roles of Conflicts, Ambivalence, and Hesitation. Journal of Business Research, 85, 165-174.

Tuesday, November 10, 2026 | 12:37 AM IST

हिंदी में पढ़ें

Business Standard

HOME PREMIUM LATEST E-PAPER MARKETS BLUEPRINT OPINION THE SMART INVESTOR SPECIALS ECONOMY PF MORE • • • Subscribe

Advertisement

Home / India News / Why online shopping sales are less on mobile apps

Why online shopping sales are less on mobile apps

Business Standard

IANS | London

Last Updated : Jan 07 2018 | 11:06 AM IST

Latest News view more

In this section | In this section

G7 allies assess Trump's midterm setback at Paris talks on global crises — 4 min read

Who is Alice Huang: Power broker or alleged 'Chinese spy' linked to Nvidia? — 5 min read

The great IT reset: IT firms must embrace AI or face shrinking margins — 8 min read | premium

HUL hikes prices of detergent brands Surf Excel, Rin, Wheel by up to 11% — 2 min read

How to choose a foreign broker? Check the plumbing, not just the app — 6 min read

Read | Shared | Commented

"The smaller screen size and uncertainty about missing important details about the purchase make you much more ambivalent about completing the transaction than when you are looking at a big screen,"Asaid Nikolaos Korfiatis, professor at the University of East Anglia in Norwich, UK.