Phys.org (University of East Anglia press release)

«Good leadership and values key to staff satisfaction, study finds»

20 May 2019 · English · By University of East Anglia. Quoted by name.

https://phys.org/news/2019-05-good-leadership-values-key-staff.html

Research. Stamolampros, P., Korfiatis, N., Chalvatzis, K. and Buhalis, D. (2019). Job Satisfaction and Employee Turnover Determinants in High Contact Services: Insights from Employees' Online Reviews. Tourism Management, 75, 130-147.

firm profitability. In particular, an increase in job satisfaction by one unit is associated with an increase in 'Return on Assets' - a measure of profitability—of between 1.2% and 1.4%. The authors say this finding is important because they do not find evidence supporting the reverse relationship—that profitable firms increase employee's satisfaction.

Co-author Dr. Nikolaos Korfiatis, of UEA's Norwich Business School, said: "Skill shortages and high employee turnover are key challenges in the tourism and hospitality sector, and the problem is of high economic significance for firms due to the costs associated with severance, training and replacement. Job satisfaction is a critical factor in attracting and retaining a skilled workforce, but also plays a vital role in the customer experience.

"This study provides new evidence about the facets and dynamics of job satisfaction and their link to corporate profitability. Our analysis indicates that the feedback to management provided through online employee reviews holds important information with specific managerial implications.